This could be a private message but IÂ´m tired of privates. This is what happens, this is true:

Dear byAGM,

also because you are tired of private messages - it would have been better you did use a private message for this after sleeping a night about it.

cheers

Hi Rdjango!

After sleeping I can say now: exactly the same of the same post... AND ok, if you want after sleep I add 3 more things:
1- maybe (probably) I explained myself incorrectly, not tired of privates, tired of all this things are said only in private (so maybe the forum could be painted in pink colour too, everything is beauty).

2- If there is a person who should give an example on how to act in the community (including chat), he should be above all an administrator. In addition, if that same person uses his "power" to try to prohibit another runner from running a race (by private message in teamspeak), it seems to me, far from being responsible, dictatorially impartial. (I say this after sleep, django ;))

3- So you come to criticize that I should cool down sleeping (-facepalm...-) when, if there is someone who acts cold, it is me. unless there are inequalities (as was the case, since I have seen harsh criticism of people who have used softer words, but of course, they were people without power).

So you are defending the use of that type of conversation?... (I know that no, but it looks like, so... be honest and partial, not blindly subjective). Everybody makes a mistake, including me including you, including him.

Hi by AGM,

sorry but i can't agree.

I think the rule to diskuss thinks like this with privat messages and not public is very important for the community and the private persons here. Only if you got no conclusion and no help per pm by the admins you could/should make it public, but before that you should take care if it is worth.

Remember we all don't like to be accused in public I think. And also we don't know the reason of someones behavior in a special situation. So with PM you give him a chance to explain it or something else. And in most of cases that works. And if it doesn't - you can lay back and think about if its worth to make it public.

Using harsh language in the ingame chat results in an autokick.

Sadly TS doesn't do the same ...
